

Malasaña and Chueca

Malasaña, Chueca, Conde Duque and Salesas are neighbourhoods in northern central Madrid.

Understand

Malasaña used to be a not-so-privileged residential neighbourhood. Starting from the 1980s Movida madrileña period, however, it has been populated by the city's young, creative, hip and artsy crowds. By day, it is a paradise for those shopping for second-hand or street fashion, artisan craftwork and young designers' stuff. At night, the pavements are occupied by tables of bars and restaurants as well as people just spending time with friends.

Conde Duque is a smaller neighbourhood directly to the west of Malasaña. Its character is pretty similar, perhaps a little quieter. Located near the university campus, its population is quite young and studentish, too. It is named after the Conde-Duque (i.e. "Count-Duke") barracks, an 18th-century former military compound-turned-cultural centre.

Chueca has a similar background like Malasaña (maybe a tad more bourgeois), but has built its reputation as Madrid's gay district. Of course, that does not mean that straight people were not welcome. Indeed, most restaurants, hostels and nightlife venues cater to a general public, not a specifically gay one. Apart from that, this area has a high concentration of antique shops.

Salesas is the small neighbourhood inbetween Chueca and the posh Salamanca district.

The official name of the administrative barrio that contains Chueca and Salesas neighbourhoods, is Justicia as the Supreme Court of Spain and the Court of Accounts are seated here. The Spanish Ministry of Justice is in nearby Calle de San Bernardo.

Get in

Chueca and Malasaña are just 1–2 km north of the central Puerta del Sol square and 3 km north of Atocha (Madrid's main station for intercity trains). They can be reached with several metro lines. Stations Gran Vía (lines 1, 5), Tribunal (1, 10) and Bilbao (1, 4) are located along Calle Fuencarral that is right inbetween both districts. Noviciado (2) is between Malasaña and Conde Duque, and Chueca (5) of course in the middle of the eponymous district. San Bernardo (2, 4) and Alonso Martínez (4, 5, 10) are near the northern tip of Malasaña and Chueca, respectively. Plaza de España (3, 10) and Ventura Rodríguez (3) are on the western rim of Conde Duque, Colón (4) at the northeastern corner of Salesas.

Tu-Su 10:00-20:00. This museum is dedicated to the history of Madrid from 1561 to present. Much of the history is explained by referencing exhibited paintings depicting people or events from the time, so it is also an art museum. Several maps and models (including two large ones in the basement) show how Madrid grew since the 16th century. All exhibits are explained in both English and Spanish. Free.   (updated Feb 2017)

- 2 Plaza del Dos de Mayo. Central square of the Malasaña neighbourhood. It was named after the 2 May uprising of 1808 against the Napoleonic occupation of Spain. A monument in its centre honours the leaders of the uprising who were executed. The monument is Malasaña's symbolic landmark that is pictured on Malasaña postcards, on the label of Malasaña beer and other local merchandise.   (updated Apr 2017)
- 3 Palacio Longoria (Longoria Palace), Calle Fernando VI, 6 / Calle Pelayo (metro Alonso Martínez). Exceptionally ornamental art nouveau building, erected 1902–03 for the banker and politician Javier González Longoria. It was designed by the Catalan architect Jose Grasses Riera and is considered to be one of the most important and beautiful examples of Spanish modernismo. Today, it houses the Spanish society of authors and editors. It can only be visited from the outside, but you may cast a glance at the entrance hall and staircase.   (updated Apr 2017)

Buy

- 1 Calle Fuencarral (between metro stations Gran Vía and Tribunal). The high street that is right inbetween Malasaña and Chueca, is the main shopping and promenading route in this part of Madrid. The 500-metre long strip between Gran Vía and Calle Hernán Cortés is closed to motorised traffic which makes it ideal to stroll along. Fuencarral itself is mostly lined by branches of well-known international fashion, cosmetics and accessory chains. Have a look into the side streets on either side if you are looking for something more individual.   (updated Apr 2017)

Reviews mixed about the tapas but great place for lunch; they do a great Cocido Madrileño and the house wine is more than acceptable (although served somewhat cold). Menu del día €11. (updated Feb 2016)
- 6 MAD MAD Vegan (<https://madmadvegan.com/#>), Calle Pelayo 19 (metro Chueca), ☎ +34 91 444 20 77. 1pm-midnight. All plant based, mainly burger menu but with a few other items. If you like beer, their own craft bottled beers are good. English menu available. €15. (updated Oct 2022)

Mid-range

- 7 La Cocina del Desierto (Al-Jaima), C/ Barbieri, 1 (Metro: Chueca), ☎ +34 915 231 142. Daily 13:30-16:00 21:00-24:00. This dark, cave-like Moroccan restaurant has some of the best North African food in the city. The seating is at low Moroccan-style tables and the calm, mellow atmosphere makes you feel like you're far from the bustling center of Chueca.
- 8 Lamucca de Pez (<http://lamuccacompany.com/lamucca-de-pezu/>), Plaza de Carlos Cambrero, 4 (Metro: Noviciado), ☎ +34 915 210 000, lamuccadepez@gmail.com (mailto:lamuccadepez@gmail.com). Su-W 13:00-01:30, Th 13:00-02:00, F Sa 13:00-02:30. Nice designer restaurant popular within the 20s-30s crowd. Good music, cool people, even better food and cocktails. - 9 La Panza es Primero (<http://www.lapanzaesprimero.com/restaurante/la-panza-es-primero-libertad/>) (Cocina Mex-Mex), C/ Libertad, 33 (Metro: Chueca), ☎ +34 915 217 640, reservas@lapanzaesprimero.com (mailto:reservas@lapanzaesprimero.com). Daily 13:00-01:00. This is a small, usually crowded, friendly Mexican restaurant with good food and drinks at reasonable prices. Sample some of their tacos and super-cheesy chilaquiles. (updated Feb 2017)
- 10 Restaurante La Barraca (<http://www.labarraca.es/?lang=en>), C/ Reina, 29, ☎ +34 915 327 154, +34 664 215 103, reservas@labarraca.es (mailto:reservas@labarraca.es). Daily 13:30-16:15 20:00-23:45. Recommended for paella if a more authentic experience is sought. €40+, €50 (meal for 2 with drinks). (updated Feb 2017)
- 11 Restaurante Siam, C/ San Bernardino, 6 (Metro: Plaza España or San Bernardino), ☎ +34 91 559 8315. Daily 12:00-16:00 20:00-24:00. Beautifully-decorated with a tranquil atmosphere, the food is reasonable and offers a pleasant departure from Spanish fare, if so desired. Most mains between €8 and €12. (updated Feb 2017)

Drink

As becomes a real hipster quarter, Malasaña boasts its own, eponymous brand of craft beer that can be bought in local delis.

Tapas bars

- 1 El Tigre, Calle de las Infantas, 30 (Metro: Gran Vía / Chueca), ☎ +34 915 320 072. Su-Th 12:00-01:30, F Sa 12:00-02:00. Probably the most well-known tapas bar in Madrid, a must do. Don't get frightened by how crowded the bar is and go in anyway. This is one of the most lively places in the city! Get beers, big glasses of wine or un mini de mojito and get free big plates of tapas every time you order. Very affordable. (updated Feb 2017)

Cafés

- 2 Café Comercial (<http://cafecomercialmadrid.com/>), Glorieta de Bilbao, 7 (Metro: Bilbao). Opened in the 1880s, this is the oldest cafe in Madrid, and has been run by the same family since the early 1900s. There's a modern internet café upstairs, but the downstairs remains traditional. 🇪🇸 🌐 (updated Apr 2018)
